

Contents

| | |
|----------------------------------------------------------------------------|-----|
| Acknowledgments | vii |
| Preface | ix |
| Part I. Signs of Trauma | |
| 1. Thinking about Violence between Theory and (Auto)Biography | 3 |
| 2. Shattered Worlds and Shocked Understandings | 29 |
| 3. A Legacy of Women in Dark Times | 59 |
| Part II. Shapes of Violence | |
| 4. Thoughtless Action into Nature and The Violence of Genocide | 87 |
| 5. An Excursus (Perhaps): Eichmann in Jerusalem and Post-Zionism | 111 |
| 6. Violence in the Intersection of Nationalism and the State Form | 119 |
| Part III. Ambiguous Alternatives | |
| 7. Violent Bodies | 149 |
| Bibliography | 167 |
| Index | 195 |
| About the Author | 201 |