

Contents

1. Tocqueville's Dread	1
1 From Theory toward Practice	4
2 Where Could Equality Be a Straightforward Idea?	5
3 Four Sample Cases	7
4 Theory to Practice and the Grammar of Equality	14
5 Political Economy of Equality	18
6 Conclusion	18
2. The Subject of Equality	20
1 Simple Individual-Regarding Equalities	20
2 Segments and Blocs	28
3 Two Roads to Emancipation	38
4 Implications for Public Policy	40
5 Summary	43
3. The Domain of Equality	45
1 Breadth versus Narrowness	46
2 Straightforward, Marginal, and Global Domains of Equality	48
3 Causally Linked Domains of Allocation	61
4 Summary	62
4. Equalities of Opportunity	64
1 Prospect-Regarding and Means-Regarding Equalities of Opportunity	65
2 Means-Regarding Equal Opportunity	67
3 Equal Means and Unequal Prospects	68
4 Bloc-Regarding Equalities of Opportunity: Nondiscrimination and Quotas	76
5 Summary	81

5. The Value of Equality	82
1 Person, Lot, and Value	83
2 Lot-Regarding Equality	85
3 Person-Regarding Equality	92
4 An Intersection among Equalities	101
5 Summary	103
6. Relative Equalities	104
1 Absolute versus Relative Equalities	105
2 Relative Equalities	107
1 The Extent of Equality	107
2 The Degree of Equality between Two Subjects	110
3 Relative Equality in General	123
3 The Level at Which Equality Is to Be Attained	128
4 Summary	129
7. Endings	130
1 Equality: Equalities	131
2 Taming Equality	144
3 Equality and Complexity	150
Notes	153
Bibliography	193
Index	205