

CONTENTS

Introduction to the Paperback Edition viii

PART I

The Evolving of the Self

1. THE CORE OF MAN 3
An overview of concepts, 3
The Freudian approach to the intrapsychic, 8
2. THE EMERGENCE OF FEELING, MOTIVATION,
AND OBJECT RELATIONS 15
Awareness, 15
Lower-level experiences of inner status, 20
Instinctual experiences, 21
Pleasure and unpleasure, 22
Causality and biology, 24
Motivation, 27
Object relations, 30
3. SIMPLE EMOTIONS AND SIMPLE
BEHAVIOR 31
General characteristics of protoemotions, 38
The protoemotional level of motivation, 42
The exocept, 43
The primordial self, 48

4. PERCEPTION AND RESPONSE: PART AND WHOLE 49
From primitive unity to whole, 49
Response to the part and to the whole, 55
5. THE PHANTASMIC WORLD OF INNER REALITY 61
The image, 61
The phenomenology of images, 65
The paleosymbol, 68
Second-order emotions, 70
The phantasmic world, 79
6. THE ENDOCEPT 84
Nonrepresentational experience, 84
Endocepts and the state of unconsciousness, 90
7. THE ORIGIN OF LANGUAGE, VERBAL THINKING, AND HIGH EMOTIONS 92
The origin of language, 93
Primitive words, 97
The stage of denotation, 98
Opposite use of words, 101
The stage of verbalization, 103
Connotation, 104
The primary aggregation, 106
Primary identification and organization of classes, 108
Teleologic causality, 113
Third-order emotions, 115
The paleologic world, 121
8. THE CONCEPT 127
The concept as a symbol, 130
High-level thought processes, 135
The world of concepts, 144
9. HIGH LEVELS OF MOTIVATION, CONSCIOUS AND UNCONSCIOUS 151
Reality adjustment, 151
Self-expansion, 154
Ethical motivation, 157
Conflicts of motivation, 158

- Unconscious motivation*, 161
The mechanism of repression, 167
Unconscious phenomena of cultural origin, 169

10. THE PSYCHOLOGICAL BASIS OF ARITHMETIC 171

- Toward the concept of unity*, 172
One, two, three, and many, 177
Ordinal numbers, 180
The concept of zero, 182

11. TOWARD A UNIFYING THEORY OF COGNITION 184

- Sensory organization and perception*, 185
Learning, 189
Memory, 190
Simple ideation, or associations of ideas, 191
High levels of cognition, 193
Unifying hypotheses, 194
The biological origin of knowledge and the mesocosmic reality, 196

12. CONATION 200

- Movement*, 200
Preconation and primary conation, 202
Protovolitional conation, 204
Volition, 209

PART II

The Psychopathological Transformation

13. GENERAL ASPECTS OF PSYCHOPATHOLOGY 217

- Basic psychopathological mechanisms*, 218
Determinism and teleology in psychopathological conditions, 225

- 14. DISORDERS CHARACTERIZED BY FEELINGS OF UNFULFILLMENT AND ARREST OF MOTIVATION 230
Neurotic feelings of unfulfillment, 230
The adjustment syndrome, 237
- 15. REVERSAL OF CONSCIOUS MOTIVATION: PSYCHOPATHIC STATES 242
The pseudopsychopath (symptomatic psychopath), 243
The idiosyncratic psychopath, 246
 1. The simple psychopath, 246
 2. The complex psychopath, 256
 3. The dyssocial psychopath, 258
 4. The Paranoid psychopath, 260
Drug addiction and the psychopathic personality, 262
- 16. THE PSYCHOTIC TRANSFORMATION 265
Schizophrenia, 266
The prepsychotic period, 266
The delusional world, 270
Paleologic thinking, 274
Teleologic causality, 277
Language and connotation, 278
Emphasis on denotation and verbalization, 280
Hallucinations, 281
Severe thinking disorders, 283
Opposite speech, 284
A dualism, 285
Perceptual alterations, 286
The endoceptual and primitive object-relations stages, 288
Conclusion, 289
Paranoia, 290
Manic-depressive psychosis, 293
- 17. THE PSYCHONEUROTIC SPLITTING 299
Parataxic distortion, 300
Anxiety response and phobias, 303
Obsessive-compulsive psychoneurosis, 306
Hysterical syndromes, 309

18. PSYCHOPATHOLOGY OF ACTION 312*Classifications, 312Psychokinetic disorders, 313Paravolitional (or parabolic) conditions, 318Dysvolitional disorders, 320*

Bibliography 325

Index 339