

Contents

Preface	vii
1. The Case for and against Psychology	2
2. The Lockean Tradition	7
3. The Leibnitzian Tradition	12
4. The Goal of Psychology	17
5. The Dilemma of Uniqueness	19
6. Disposition	24
7. Unsocial Beginnings	28
8. The Importance of Early Affiliation	31
9. Tribalism and Individuation	34
10. Is the Concept of Self Necessary?	36
11. The Proprium	41
12. The Fusion of Propriate Functions	56
13. Critique	58
14. Chance, Opportunistic, and Oriented Becoming	62
15. Motivation and Tension	65
16. Conscience	68
17. Schemata of Value	75
18. Anxiety and Culture	78
19. Freedom	82
20. Structure of Personality	88
21. The Religious Sentiment	93
22. Epilogue: Psychology and Democracy	99
Index	103