

Contents

Acknowledgements	page vii
Introduction	1
1 The politics of political explanation	7
The actual and the possible in electoral politics 7. The political import of alternative philosophies 18. The positivist rejoinder 23. The rationalist derailment 28. A critique of pure interpretation 34
2 The underdetermination of subjects by structures	41
The political context of structural theory 41. Theory without anthropology 43. The mode of production as structure 46. The reinsertion of anthropology 48. The primacy of politics 58
3 Appearance and reality in politics	63
Penetrating appearances 63. Hidden injuries and structural constraints 67. The reality of appearances 82
4 The public interest and the common good	90
The two orientations 90. The circle of liberalism 94. The dialectic of dissolution 101. Politics and the common good 109
5 Some theories of state crisis	120
The priority of the state 120. Reform of the welfare state 122. The fiscal crisis of the state 127. The cultural contradictions of capitalism 142
6 Personal identity, citizenship, and the state	151
The quest for personal identity 151. Citizens and looters 157. Personal identity, electoral politics, and the state 161

Contents

7	Socialism and freedom	173
	Socialist ideals and political strategies 173. The classical debate reconsidered 180. The assumption of indefinite community 186. Some institutional revisions 188. Liberalism and socialism 191
	Notes to the text	195
	Bibliography	211
	Index	215