

Contents

PART ONE

1. Introductory — The Dynamic View of Time	3
2. The Static View of Time	7
3. Ordinary Language and the Nature of Time	9
4. Temporal Movement Denied	15
5. Schlesinger's Conception of 'the NOW' Queried	18
6. Talking about Temporal Relations	22
7. The Tensed View of Time	26
8. Objects, Events and Properties	29
9. The Unreality of Temporal Properties	32
10. Summary	42
11. McTaggart and Change	44
12. What Makes Tensed Statements True?	50
13. Can Tensed Statements be Translated by Tenseless Ones?	52
14. Tenselessness	61
15. Dynamism Denied Outright	69
16. A Note on Usage	71

PART TWO

17. Introductory — What our Experience is Like	75
18. Concern about What is to be Experienced	79
19. 'Thank Goodness That's Over'	93
20. Fate	105
21. An Objection	113
22. The 'Open' Future	116
23. Truth-fatalism Refuted	121
24. Acting on the Fixed Future	129
25. The Difficulty of Finding a Model for the Static View of Time	134
26. The Error in Taylor's Condition-fatalism	138
27. Death and Dying	142

Contents

28. The Evils of Death	145
29. Can Death be an Evil for its Subject?	148
30. Objections to this Analysis	153
Bibliography	160
Index	163