

CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION

I

- (1) The two types of democracy, liberal and totalitarian
- (2) The eighteenth-century origins of political Messianism; the schism
- (3) Totalitarianism of the Right and Totalitarianism of the Left
- (4) Secular and religious Messianism
- (5) Questions of method

PART I

THE EIGHTEENTH-CENTURY ORIGINS OF POLITICAL MESSIANISM

CHAP.

- |   |    |
|---|----|
| I. NATURAL ORDER : THE POSTULATE                              | 17 |
| (a) The single principle                                      |    |
| (b) The secular religion                                      |    |
| (c) Apriorism and empiricism                                  |    |
| II. THE SOCIAL PATTERN AND FREEDOM (HELVETIUS ANDHOLBACH) | 28 |
| (a) Identity of reason  |    |
| (b) Self-interest   |    |
| (c) The natural order, the Legislator, and the individual     |    |
| III. TOTALITARIAN DEMOCRACY (ROUSSEAU)                        | 38 |
| (a) The psychological background                              |    |
| (b) The general will and the individual                       |    |
| (c) The general will, popular sovereignty, and dictatorship   |    |
| (d) The general will as purpose                               |    |
| IV. PROPERTY (MORELLE AND MABLY)                              | 50 |
| (a) Premises and conclusions—the discrepancy                  |    |
| (b) Morelly, the Communist                                    |    |
| (c) Mably and ascetic virtue                                  |    |
| (d) Restrictionist economics                                  |    |

PART II

THE JACOBIN IMPROVISATION

CHAP.

	PAGE
I. THE REVOLUTION OF 1789—SIEYÈS	69
(a) The Revolutionary attitude
(b) Popular sovereignty
(c) Property
II. BALANCE OR REVOLUTIONARY PURPOSE—UNDER THE CONSTITUTIONAL MONARCHY	78
(a) Legality and the supremacy of the Revolutionary purpose
(b) Jacobinism—mental and psychological elements
(c) The definition of the general will
(d) The idea of balance—Saint-Just
(e) Robespierre and the Revolutionary purpose—the idea of the people
III. VOLONTÉ UNE	98
(a) Direct democratic action
(b) Liberty as an objective purpose
(c) The right of opposition; outlawing of parties
(d) The theory of Revolutionary Government
(e) Jacobin dictatorship
IV. ULTIMATE SCHEME	132
(a) The postulate of progress and finality
(b) The doctrinaire mentality
(c) The reign of virtue
(d) Saint-Just's Institutions Républicaines
(e) The civil religion and condemnation of intellectuals
V. THE SOCIAL PROBLEM	149
(a) The inconsistencies
(b) Class policy
(c) Fundamental questions
(d) Economic restrictionism and individualism

PART III

THE BABOUVIST CRYSTALLIZATION

I. THE LESSONS OF THE REVOLUTION AND OF THERMIDOR	167
(a) The Messianic climate
(b) The lessons
(c) Babeuf
(d) Buonarroti
II. THE BABOUVIST SOCIAL DOCTRINE	179
(a) Equality and the Social Contract
(b) Vision of history as history of class struggle
(c) The interpretation of the French Revolution
(d) The evolution towards Communism
III. THE STORY OF THE PLOT OF BABEUF	196
(a) The prehistory of the Conspiracy
(b) The story of the plot
IV. DEMOCRACY AND DICTATORSHIP	201
(a) The definition of democracy
(b) Anti-parliamentary, plebiscitary ideas
(c) Can the people be trusted?
(d) The idea of the enlightened vanguard
(e) The theory of Revolutionary dictatorship
V. THE STRUCTURE OF THE CONSPIRACY	222
(a) Organization and propaganda
(b) The plan of the insurrection
VI. THE ULTIMATE SCHEME	232
(a) Political organization
(b) Economic Communism
(c) Spiritual cohesion
CONCLUSIONS	249
NOTES	256
INDEX	323