

TOWARD THE AFRICAN REVOLUTION

— Political Essays —

FRANTZ FANON

translated from the French by
HAAKON CHEVALIER

GROVE PRESS
New York

Contents

Editorial Note	vii
I. The Problem of the Colonized	1
1. The "North African Syndrome"	3
2. West Indians and Africans	17
II. Racism and Culture	29
III. For Algeria	45
1. Letter to a Frenchman	47
2. Letter to the Resident Minister (1956)	52
IV. Toward the Liberation of Africa	55
1. Disappointments and Illusions of French Colonialism	57
2. Algeria Face to Face with the French Torturers	64
3. Concerning a Plea	73
4. French Intellectuals and Democrats and the Algerian Revolution	76
5. Maghreb Blood Shall Not Flow in Vain	91
6. The Farce That Changes Sides	96
7. Decolonization and Independence	99
8. A Continued Crisis	106
9. Letter to the Youth of Africa	113
10. First Truths on the Colonial Problem	120
11. The Lesson of Cotonou	127
12. Appeal to Africans	132
13. Sequels of a Plebiscite in Africa	135
14. The Algerian War and Man's Liberation	144
15. Algeria in Accra	150
16. Accra: Africa Affirms Its Unity and Defines Its Strategy	153
17. Mr. Debré's Desperate Endeavors	158

18. Racist Fury in France	163
19. Blood Flows in the Antilles Under French Domination	167
20. Unity and Effective Solidarity Are the Conditions for African Liberation	170
V. African Unity	175
1. This Africa to Come	177
2. Lumumba's Death: Could We Do Otherwise?	191