

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Chapter 1: Difference: The Challenge to Moral Reflection	1
1. The Problem of Difference	3
2. The Problem of the Moral Subject	6
3. Psychoanalytic Feminism and Moral Reflection	8
A. Difference and Figuration	11
B. Empathy and Moral Judgment	14
Chapter 2: Difference, Empathy, and Impartial Reason	20
1. Impartial Reason: Recovering Sameness and Redefining the Person	22
2. Impartial Reason's Need for Empathy	26
3. The Case for Relying on Empathy in Moral Reflection	31
4. Incident-Specific Empathy and Broad Empathy	34
5. Empathy: Handmaiden to Impartial Reason?	38
Chapter 3: Prejudice and Cultural Imagery	42
1. Impartial Reason and Prejudice	44
2. A Kantian Account of Prejudice	48
3. Culturally Normative Prejudice	51
4. Dissident Speech: Figuration as Critique	56
Chapter 4: Psychoanalytic Feminism and Dissident Speech	62
1. Freud's Figuration of Femininity	63
2. The Refiguration of Gender in Psychoanalytic Feminist Dissident Speech	69
A. Jessica Benjamin: Rational Violence	72

B. Nancy Chodorow: A Revalued Mother	78
C. Julia Kristeva: The Degendered Father of Prehistory	83
D. Luce Irigaray: Two Lips and Women's Desire	86
3. The Positivist Worry about Dissident Speech	91
Chapter 5: Dissident Speech: Figuration and the Politicization of Moral Perception	93
1. Women as Dissidents: Kristeva's View	95
2. Love, Beauty, and Obligation: Nussbaum's Account of Moral Figuration	98
3. Politicizing Love: Solidarity and Dissident Speech	100
4. Polyvocal Dissident Speech: Counterfiguration without Homogenization	106
5. Trying on the Trope: Dissident Speech and Emancipatory Moral Perception	108
6. Hijacking the Imaginary: The Complementarity of Cultural and Material Politics	113
7. Postscript: Liberating Philosophy from Narrow Professionalism	115
Chapter 6: Empathic Thought: Responding Morally to Difference	119
1. Empathy, Recognition, and the Emergence of Moral Subjectivity	122
2. Self-recognition, Moral Identity, and Moral Subjectivity	127
3. From Empathy to Moral Judgment	131
4. Three Challenges to Empathic Thought	135
A. Empathic Thought without Intimacy	136
B. Moral Reflection without Superordinate Moral Criteria	138
C. Moral Identity without Unitary Subjects	143
5. Coparenting, Impartial Reason, and Empathic Thought	147
Chapter 7: Empathic Thought and the Politics of Rights	152
1. Political Discourse and Empathic Thought	155
2. Nonunitary Political Identity, Injustice, and Rights	157
3. Dynamic Moral Reflection and Social Criticism	166
Notes	171
Bibliography	185
Index	195