

---

Contents

---

Foreword J. Ann Tickner	ix
Acknowledgments	xiii
Introduction V. Spike Peterson	1
1 Security and Sovereign States: What Is at Stake in Taking Feminism Seriously? V. Spike Peterson	31
2 What Exactly Is Wrong with the Liberal State as an Agent of Change? Mona Harrington	65
3 The Quagmire of Gender and International Security Rebecca Grant	83
4 Women and Revolution: A Framework for Analysis Mary Ann Tetreault	99
5 The "State" of Nature: A Garden Unfit for Women and Other Living Things Anne Sisson Runyan	123
6 Sovereignty, Identity, Sacrifice Jean Bethke Elshtain	141
7 Feminists and Realists View Autonomy and Obligation in International Relations Christine Sylvester	155
8 Gender and Critique in the Theory of International Relations R. B. J. Walker	179
Selected Bibliography	203
About the Contributors	215
Index	217
About the Book	225