

Contents

Introduction Gendering Political Theory	1
Introduction	1
The Discipline of Politics	7
Gender and Political Studies	10
Feminist Theory	12
Anti-theoreticism	12
Inter-disciplinarity	14
Feminist Theories and the Discipline of Politics	16
Conclusion	19
PART I FRACTIOUS FEMINIST FRAMES	21
1 Framing Politics	23
Introduction	23
Public and Private	24
Power	32
Conflictual conceptions of power	32
Capacity conceptions of power	35
Practice conceptions of power	35
Feminist Theories of Power	39
Feminist articulations of power as capacity	40
Synthesizing conflict and capacity	42
Democratic forms of power	44
Summary	45

Reconstructing the Political	46
Institutional	47
Ethical	48
Critical	50
Conclusion	52
2 Framing Gender	54
Introduction	54
Sex and Gender	54
Constructionism	55
Structuralist forms of constructionism	56
From single to multiple social structures	57
From material to discursive constructionism	60
Summary	61
Beyond Sex and Gender	62
Corporeality	63
Essentialism and Autonomy	65
Essentialism	66
Autonomy	67
Mobile Subjectivities	69
The Politics of Subjectivity	72
Masculinities	74
Conclusion	77
3 Framing Theory	80
Introduction	80
Objectivity	82
Interpretation	83
Genealogy	87
Three Frames of Political Theory	89
Objectivism and political theory	89
Empiricism and rationalism	90
The interpretivist challenge to empiricism	91
The rationalist defence of political theory	93
The genealogical challenge	94
Three Frames of Gender Theory	95
Objectivist gender theory	96
Interpretative gender theory	96
Genealogical gender theory	102
Relating Objectivity, Interpretation and Genealogy	105
Conclusion	110

PART II RECONSTRUCTING THE POLITICAL	113
4 Equality	115
Introduction	115
Equality and Difference	116
Equality	117
Difference	117
Between equality and difference	118
Beyond Dichotomy	122
Diversity	124
Difference and dichotomy	126
Equality and sameness	127
Relating Equality, Difference and Diversity	132
Difference/identity	133
Diversity/difference	135
Equality revisited	137
Conclusion	139
5 Justice	140
Introduction	140
An Ethic of Justice	141
An Ethic of Care	143
Gendered Ethics?	144
Between Caring and Justice	148
Justice and Care as Political Principles	152
Extending the ethic of justice	154
Extending the ethic of care	156
Synthesizing justice and care	157
Justice, Caring and Difference	160
Conclusion	163
6 Citizenship	166
Introduction	166
Complex Citizenships	166
Rights and responsibilities	168
Universality and particularity	170
Cosmopolitanism and territoriality	171
Feminist Perspectives on Citizenship	173
Maternalist citizenship	175
Feminist civic republican citizenship theory	178

Rejecting Both Maternalism and Universalism	179
Liberal citizenship reconsidered	184
Beyond binaries	186
Territoriality Reconsidered	188
Conclusion	192
7 Representation	194
Introduction	194
Participatory and Representative Conceptions of the Political	195
The Conception of Representation	201
The Representation of Women	204
Interests, identities and group representation	206
Modified defences of group representation	208
Representation and contingent identities	214
Ideological and Geographic Representation Reconsidered	217
Representation, recognition and redistribution	217
Re-siting the political	223
Conclusion	223
Conclusion	226
References and Bibliography	233
Index	251