
Contents

	Acknowledgments	ix
Chapter 1	Possessive Individualism and Democratic Theory: Macpherson's Legacy Joseph H. Carens	1
Chapter 2	The Possessive Individualism Thesis: A Reconsideration in the Light of Recent Scholarship James Tully	19
Chapter 3	Equality as Egoism Louise Marcil-Lacoste	45
Chapter 4	The Individualist/Holist Debate and Bentham's Claim to Sociological and Psychological Realism Nancy L. Rosenblum	77
Chapter 5	Stretching the Limits of the Democratic Imagination John Keane	105
Chapter 6	Freedom and Feminism Virginia Held	137

Chapter 7	Macpherson's Neglect of the Political	Jane Mansbridge	155
Chapter 8	Liberalism and Modern Democracy	Chantal Mouffe	175
Chapter 9	Democracy and Contingency	William E. Connolly	193
Chapter 10	The Signifiers of Democracy	Ernesto Laclau	221
Chapter 11	Property and Democracy	Mibailo Markovič Editor's Note by Joseph H. Carens 235 A Reply by Mibailo Markovič 239	235
Chapter 12	The End of History and Its Beginning Again; or, The Not-Quite-Yet Human Stage of Human History	William Leiss	263
		Selected Bibliography	275
		Contributors	285
		Index	287