

CONTENTS

Acknowledgements	vii
The Contributors	viii
Editor's Preface	1
PART I INTRODUCTION	11
1 Democracy: From City-states to a Cosmopolitan Order? David Held	13
PART II CONTESTING DEMOCRACY: THEORETICAL DISPUTES	53
2 Liberal Democracy and the Limits of Democratization David Beetham	55
3 Deliberative Democracy and Social Choice David Miller	74
4 Must Feminists Give Up on Liberal Democracy? Anne Phillips	93
5 Associational Democracy Paul Hirst	112
6 Direct Democracy: Setting Appropriate Terms of Debate Ian Budge	136
7 The Cultural Particularity of Liberal Democracy Bhikhu Parekh	156

PART III SUBSTANTIVE ISSUES:
THE SCOPE AND LIMITS OF DEMOCRATIC POLITICS	177
8 Democracy, Markets and Capital: Are there Necessary Economic Limits to Democracy?	179
Christopher Pierson
9 Socialism and Democracy	200
Alex Callinicos
10 Military Policies and the State System as Impediments to Democracy	213
Robert C. Johansen
11 Democracy and the Media – Without Foundations	235
John Keane
12 Democratic Citizenship in a Post-communist Era	254
Danilo Zolo
 PART IV THE DYNAMICS OF DEMOCRATIZATION: RISKS AND POSSIBILITIES
	269
13 Consolidations of Democracy	271
John A. Hall
14 Democracy and its Future in Eastern Europe	291
Paul G. Lewis
15 The Alternatives to 'Liberal Democracy': A Latin American Perspective	312
Laurence Whitehead
16 Sub-Saharan Africa	330
Geoffrey Hawthorn
17 Democratization in Asia	355
David Potter
18 The Prospects for Democracy in the Middle East	380
Simon Bromley
 Index	 407