

Contents

Acknowledgments vi

Introduction 1

1. The Measurement of Utility and Arrow's Theorem	13
1.1 The Measurability and Comparability of Utility	13
1.2 The Arrow Impossibility Theorem	22
1.3 Reformulation of the Impossibility Theorem with Utility Functions	26
1.4 The Connection between Arrowian Social Choice and Distributive Justice	37
1.5 Social Choice on Economic Environments	38
1.6 Conclusion	48
2. Axiomatic Bargaining Theory	51
2.1 Justice as Rational Prudence	51
2.2 The Nash Bargaining Solution	53
2.3 Other Axiomatizations of the Nash Solution	61
2.4 The Kalai-Smorodinsky and Egalitarian Solutions	66
2.5 A Criticism from the Economic Point of View	78
2.6 Conclusion	89

3. Axiomatic Mechanism Theory on Economic Environments	95
3.1 Introduction	95
3.2 The Domain of Economic Environments	96
3.3 Axioms and Theorems on Economic Environments	98
3.4 Proofs of Theorems	103
3.5 Naming Utility and Goods	115
3.6 Conclusion	123
4. Utilitarianism	127
4.1 Introduction	127
4.2 Maskin's Theorem	130
4.3 The Representation Theorems of Harsanyi and Myerson	138
4.4 Utilitarianism from behind the Veil of Ignorance	147
4.5 An Implication for the Interpretation of Individual Optimization under Uncertainty	150
4.6 Optimal Population Size	153
4.7 Conclusion	160
5. Primary Goods, Fundamental Preferences, and Functionings	163
5.1 Countering Utilitarianism	163
5.2 Primary Goods, Welfare, and Equality	165
5.3 Rawls's Arguments for Maximin (the Difference Principle)	172
5.4 The Cohen Criticism	183
5.5 Kolm's Fundamental Preferences	185
5.6 Functionings and Capability	188
5.7 Equality of Functionings or Primary Goods: An Alternative Approach	193
5.8 Conclusion	202

6. Neo-Lockeanism and Self-Ownership	205
6.1 Nozick's Theory of Distributive Justice	205
6.2 Challenges to Nozick	208
6.3 Joint Ownership of the External World	211
6.4 Generalizations of Locke on Economic Environments	215
6.5 Implementation	229
6.6 The Morality of Self-Ownership	232
6.7 Conclusion	234
7. Equality of Welfare versus Equality of Resources	237
7.1 Introduction	237
7.2 Dworkin on Equality of Welfare	238
7.3 Countering Dworkin's Central Argument against Equality of Welfare	242
7.4 Dworkin's Definition of Equality of Resources	245
7.5 An Axiomatic Approach to Equality of Resources	252
7.6 Conclusion	261
8. Equality of Opportunity for Welfare	263
8.1 Relocating Dworkin's Cut, 1	263
8.2 Relocating Dworkin's Cut, 2	272
8.3 Equality of Opportunity: An Example	276
8.4 Equality of Opportunity: A Formalization	279
8.4* A Discrete Formulation of Equality of Opportunity	283
8.5 Examples of the EOp Mechanism	285
8.6 Related Approaches to Equality of Opportunity	302
8.7 Conclusion	308
8.8 Appendix	310
Appendix: Envy-Free Allocations	317
References	323
Index	331