

Contents

Acknowledgments	ix
Introduction	1
Master Narrative, Postmodernism, Slave Narrative
I. The Sensuality of the Good	11
1 The Origin of Ethics in Music And Dance	17
Contemporary Psychoanalytic Theory
i. Julia Kristeva: From Womb to Tomb	19
ii. Daniel Stern: The Social Dance	24
2 Tactile Sociality	31
Irigaray and Child Development Research
II. Correspondences:	49
The Attunement of Self and Other
3 The Greeting: Historical Background	57
i. Kojève: Self-Creation	57
ii. Gadamer: The Role of the Greeting in Recognition	63
iii. Lacan and the Mirror Stage	63
iv. Jonathan Bennett and the Face in the Mirror	68
4 The Figure of the Face	75
Levinas and Child Development Research
i. The Face Stripped Bare	75
ii. Face-to-Face with the Mother	83
iii. The Saying before the Said, or Mamaese	86
iv. A Correspondence Theory of Ethical Exchange	92

	III. Dissonance and Social Struggle	95
5	Hegel's Master Narrative of Freedom and the African American Experience	105
	i. Will over Desire	106
	ii. Freedom as Self-Mastery	113
	iii. The Slave as the Liminal Self	119
	iv. The African American Experience of Slavery	120
	v. Black Dialectic/White Dialectic	126
6	A Slave Narrative of Freedom	129
	Frederick Douglass and the Force of Manhood
	i. The Ecstasy of Struggle	132
	ii. Writing the Self: Douglass versus Foucault on Literacy	135
	iii. Liberal and Dialectical Constructions of Manhood	137
	iv. Black Spirituality	143
	v. Agency in the Slave	148
	vi. Nietzschean and Psychoanalytic Explanations of Punishment	151
	vii. The Pathology of the Oppressor	152 viii. The Healing Power of Music	154
	ix. The Rhythms and Tones of Freedom	156
7	Spirit: Friedrich Nietzsche versus Frederick Douglass	157
	i. Warrior versus Worker: Dubois on Freedom	159
	ii. Free Spirits	160
	iii. Ecstatic "Manhood"	161
	iv. Demythologizing Power	166
	v. The Fear of Color	167
	vi. Tactile Recognition	169
	vii. The Birth of Freedom from the Spirit of Music	173
	viii. Conclusion	174
	Notes	177
	Index	213