

COLD WAR DIPLOMACY

American Foreign Policy, 1945-1975

NORMAN A. GRAEBNER
University of Virginia

D. VAN NOSTRAND COMPANY, INC.

New York • Cincinnati • Toronto • London • Melbourne

Contents

PART ONE—AMERICAN FOREIGN POLICY, 1945–1975

1. Introduction: The Isolationist Tradition	3
2. Divided Europe: Foundations of the Cold War	7
3. The Structure of Containment	34
4. Self-Determination and European Security	58
5. The Postwar Challenge of Asia	78
6. Ends Without Means: The Eisenhower Years	100
7. Vietnam: Unanswered Challenge of the Sixties	121
8. The Changing Structure of Peace	143

PART TWO—DOCUMENTS

1. Cordell Hull's Radio Address, April 9, 1944	171
2. Speech of Captain Thorneycroft in the British House of Commons, February 28, 1945	176
3. Churchill's Speech at Fulton, Missouri, March 5, 1946	181

4.	Truman's Speech to Congress, March 12, 1947	186
5.	Marshall's Speech at Harvard University, June 5, 1947	190
6.	Acheson's Speech in Washington, April 22, 1950	193
7.	Acheson's Speech in Washington, January 12, 1950	197
8.	Dulles' Statement on Liberation, January 15, 1953	202
9.	Dulles' Speech in New York, January 25, 1954	205
10.	Dulles' Defense of U.S. China Policy, June 28, 1957	209
11.	Dean Rusk's Statement Before the Senate Committee on Foreign Relations, February 18, 1966	214
12.	Hans J. Morgenthau's Critique of American Involvement in Vietnam, January, 1968	226
	Selected Bibliography	237
	Index	245