

Contents

1. Transcendental Philosophy	3
1. Textual puzzles 2. Kant's program 3. "Real" possibility
2. The Old Conceptual Framework	32
1. Objects and representations 2. The problem 3. Synthetic a priori judgments 4. Empirical idealism 5. Trying to save the framework
3. Between Old and New	59
1. A revolution for whom? 2. The main step 3. Difficulties with revolutions 4. Reflective judgments 5. Intentional objects
4. Thinking of Objects	89
1. Ladders 2. Things in themselves 3. Criteria 4. The human predicament
5. Experiencing Objects	119
1. Space and time 2. Counting oneself as one 3. Empirical correlations 4. Reasons for dissatisfaction 5. Hume revisited

6. The Conflict of Faculties	164
1. Divisibility and other enigmas
2. The transcendental illusion	3. Appearances
4. Understanding and reason
7. Knowledge in the New Framework	194
1. Synthesis	2. Wisdom
3. The problem resolved?	4. The point of story-telling
Notes	218
Bibliography	248
Index	259