

Contents

PREFACE	vii
ACKNOWLEDGEMENTS	xi
1. HISTORICAL ESSAYS	1
1.1. History of a fallacy	1
1.2. Aristotle on conjunctive propositions	13
1.3. Russell on meaning and denoting	27
1.4. Plato's Euthyphro	31
1.5. History of the corruptions of logic	44
2. TRADITIONAL LOGIC	62
2.1. Distribution: a last word?	62
2.2. Toms on distribution	65
2.3. Strawson on symbolic and traditional logic	66
2.4. Contradictories and contraries	70
2.5. The law of excluded middle	74
3. THEORY OF REFERENCE AND SYNTAX	88
3.1. Ryle on namely-riders	88
3.2. Namely-riders again	92
3.3. What are referring expressions?	95
3.4. Referring expressions again	97
3.5. On complex terms	102
3.6. Complex terms again	106
3.7. Logical procedures and the identity of expressions	108
3.8. Quine's syntactical insights	115
4. INTENTIONALITY	128
4.1. On beliefs about oneself	128
4.2. A medieval discussion of intentionality	129

4.3.	Quantification theory and the problem of identifying objects of reference	139
4.4.	Intentional identity	146
4.5.	The perils of Pauline	153
4.6.	The identity of Propositions	166
4.7.	Entailment	174
4.8.	Entailment again	186
5.	QUOTATION AND SEMANTICS	189
5.1.	Designation and truth	189
5.2.	Designation and truth—a reply	193
5.3.	Ifs and ands	194
5.4.	On rigour in semantics	198
5.5.	'Necessary propositions and entailment statements'	201
5.6.	On names of expressions	203
5.7.	Is it right to say or is a conjunction?	204
5.8.	Quotation and quantification	205
5.9.	On insolubilia	209
6.	SET THEORY	212
6.1.	Frege's Grundlagen	212
6.2.	Quine on classes and properties	222
6.3.	Class and concept	226
6.4.	On Frege's way out	235
7.	IDENTITY THEORY	238
7.1.	Identity	238
7.2.	Identity—a reply	247
8.	ASSERTION	250
8.1.	Ascriptivism	250
8.2.	Assertion	254
9.	IMPERATIVES AND PRACTICAL REASONING	270
9.1.	Imperative and deontic logic	270
9.2.	Imperative inference	278
9.3.	Kenny on practical reasoning	285
10.	LOGIC IN METAPHYSICS AND THEOLOGY	289
10.1.	Nominalism	289
10.2.	Some problems about time	302
10.3.	God's relation to the world	318