Preface	xiii
Acknowledgments	xv
Introduction	xvii
1. Induction, Probability, and Uncertainty	1
1. Cognitive Expansion and Uncertainty
2. Evidence, Acceptance, and Probability
3. Induction, Probability Calculation, and Rationality of Belief and Decision
4. Carnap's View of Inductive Logic: A Critical Review
5. Noninductive Rationality of Science: Popper on Basic Statements
6. Induction without Justification: Ayer and Strawson
2. Can Induction Be Justified?	23
1. Different Formulations of the Problem of Induction
2. Is Induction Not Inductively Justifiable? Donald Williams's Defense and Sample Induction
3. Harrod's Defense of Induction
4. Induction and Discovery: Mill, Whewell, and Jevons
3. Probabilistic Justifications of Induction	43
1. From Inductive to Probabilistic Justifications
2. From the Basis of Experience to Beyond It

3. From Demonstration to Probabilification:
Keynes's Position Examined
4. Examination of Reichenbach's Frequency Interpretation of Probability and the Predictionist Justification of Induction
5. Carnap's Concept of Confirmation: A Review

- 4. Probable Knowledge: Confirmation and Correction 69
 1. Reason and Experience in Induction
 2. Biology and Psychology of Learning and Quine on the Justification of Induction
 3. Popper's Antifoundationalism and Quine's Rejection of First Philosophy: Their Agreement and Difference
 4. Inductive Ascent: Description of State, Structure, and Constituent in Wittgenstein, Carnap, and Hintikka
 5. The Popper-Carnap Controversy on Induction and Probability and Conflation Issues
 6. Self-Corrective Induction of Peirce and Reichenbach and Popper's Concept of Truth
Approximation through the Method of Trial and Error
 7. Popper and Carnap on Empirical Content
 8. The Popper-Carnap Controversy as a New Case Study of the Ongoing Theory-Practice Dialectic
 9. Induction, Probability, and Deduction: Relation without Confrontation and None beyond Question
 10. Different Senses of Knowledge and Different Forms of Its Presentation

- 5. What Is Wrong with Skepticism? 107
 1. Different Senses of Skepticism
 2. Skepticism: Radical, Philosophical, Practical, and Universal
 3. Different Forms of Skepticism and Different Ways of Meeting Their Challenge
 4. Two Ways of Meeting the Challenge: Cartesian and Kantian
 5. On the Alleged Uncritical Character of the Antiskeptical Methods

- | | | |
|-----------|--|-----|
| 6. | Husserl and Popper on Skepticism:
Some Problems | 135 |
| | 1. Antipresuppositionalist and Antireductionist
Program of Phenomenology | |
| | 2. Kant's Influence on Husserl and Popper:
Their Points of Agreement and Difference | |
| | 3. Popper and Watkins on Basic Statements:
A Short Critique | |
| | 4. Popper and Quine on Realism and Instrumentalism: Where Their Agreements Are
Substantive and Differences Secondary | |
| | 5. The Idealist and the Realist Ways of Meeting the Challenges of Skepticism: Some Western and
Indian Views | |
| 7. | For and Against Skepticism: Moore and Wittgenstein | 171 |
| | 1. Moore's Criticism of the British Empirical Idealism and the Alleged Self-Refuting Character of Solipsism and Skepticism | |
| | 2. Different Forms of Realism and Moore's Proof of External Realism | |
| | 3. The Variety of Uses of the Term Know and the Resulting Difficulty of Removing "Doubt" | |
| | 4. Social Contract Theory of Meaning and Wittgenstein's Critique of Moore's Antiskepticism | |
| | 5. The Infirmities of Moore's Proof of an External Realism or World | |
| | 6. Ways of Understanding Wittgenstein's
Prorelativistic Antiskepticism | |
| | 7. Where Wittgenstein Stands Close to Moore on the Point of Antiskepticism | |
| | 8. The Point of Continuity between Two Phases of Wittgenstein's Approach to Skepticism | |
| 8. | Examination of Some Views on Skepticism | 199 |
| | 1. Different Forms of Language and Their Strength and Weakness, and How Well-Founded Are the Foundations of Mathematics as Language? | |
| | 2. On the Nature of Language and Human Knowledge of the World: Some Indian and
Western Theories | |

3. Is Knowledge Certain? Hume's Question and Kant's Answer; Quine's Question
4. Quine's Question Extended from Epistemology to Ethics: Some Indian Views Recalled in This Context
5. Is Skepticism Inherent in Theory or Practice? Can Naturalism or Reductionism Show a Way Out or Must One Accept the Third (Scheme-Content) Dogma or Empiricism?
6. The Primacy of Practice over Theory, of Observational Language over Theoretical Language, and the Relevance of the Issue to Combat Skepticism
7. Relative Strength and Weakness of Somatology, Psychology, and Sociology in Understanding and Containing Skepticism
8. How Is Skepticism in Its Nonpejorative Sense Native to Human Nature?
9. From Somatology to Sociology of Knowledge: from Experience beyond Experience
10. Where Lies the Strength of the Repeatedly Refuted Skepticism?
11. How Is Experience Both Generative and Curative of Doubt?

9. Hegel and Heidegger on Skepticism: Some Problems

247

1. Two Aspects of Experience: Evidential and Explorative
2. Hegel on the Dialectical Character of Experience: Self-Affirming and Self-Negating
3. Heidegger on Hegel's Experience of Consciousness or Phenomenology of Spirit: The Limitation and Transcendence of Experience
4. Life of Skepsis and the Ascending Shapes of Consciousness; Truth as Being-in-Itself and Knowledge as Being-For-Us; Skepsis as the Dialectic between the "Already" (Natural) and the "Not Yet" (Transcendental)
5. Experience as Engaged in Its Search for Truth Is Naturally Skeptical
6. Truth Is Our Incomplete and Historical Self-Disclosure: How Incompleteness and Historicity

- Instead of Destroying or Obscuring Truth Foster the Spirit of Quest for It
7. Life, Death, Authenticity, and Truth:
A Reconstruction
8. Hegel's Defense of (Historical) Experience of (Transcendental) Consciousness, Marked by Skepsis and the Cunning of Reason; Heidegger beyond Hegel; Transcendence as Human and without the Absolute
- 10. The Antiskeptical Ontology of Kant and Hegel and the Proskeptical Thesis of Duhem and Quine 275
1. Different and Conflicting Notions of Knowledge:
"Knowledge" and the Realm of Doubt Considered from the Anthropological and Theological Points of View
2. Skepticism's Different Facets and Construals
3. Are the Unitarian Approaches to Knowledge Necessarily Antiskeptical in Their Inspiration?
4. Is Human Knowledge Bound to Be Skeptical?
Why Is God's Knowledge Claimed to Be Doubt
Free? Knowledge without God: Epistemology without Theology
5. Doing Away with the Analytic-Synthetic and Physics-Metaphysics Distinctions; Methodological and Ontological Holism
6. Skepticism Pertaining to Natural Law Statements: Nomic and Accidental Necessity and the Inductive or Deductive Method to Substantiate the Certainty Claim
7. Law Statements in the Light of Quantum Mechanics: Realism and Probabilism; Reichenbach's Interpretation of Alternative (Not Dualistic) Descriptions; Evidential Indeterminacy and Holism from Reichenbach to Quine
8. Why Crucial Experiments Fail to Be Crucial?
The Points of Agreement and Difference between Duhem and Quine
- 11. Between Dogmatism and Skepticism 313
1. Dogmatism and Skepticism as Two Different

	Moods or Stances of (Otherwise) Normal and Rational Human Beings
	2. Different Meanings of Doubt: Epistemological and Ontological Issues
	3. How Practical Dogma and Theoretical Doubt Come Together: Hume, Kant, and Buddha
	4. Interpretations of Kant by Modern Neo-Kantians; Husserl's Kantian Insights; Implications of Husserl's Foundationalism
	5. The Positive Aspect of Doubt
12.	Skepticism as the Critique of Search:
	An Epilogue
	1. Different Forms of Inference and Learning: The Complex Character of the Ways of Knowing
	2. Induction, Deduction, and Certainty; Logic, Knowledge and Postulation
	3. Fluxist Ontology and Skeptic Epistemology: Coherentism and Correspondence; Ontological Realism and Epistemological Skepticism; Nature and the Problems of Theorization; the Induction and Biology of Learning
	4. The Human Mind and the Certainty of Knowledge: Evidence, Skepticism, and Foundationalism
	5. Constructive Skepticism Defended
