

Contents

Introduction	11
--------------	----

Part One / Studies in Democracy

1	The Philosophical Heritage of the Atlantic Democracies	23
2	Democracy or Republic?	41
3	Are There Two Kinds of Democracy?	52
4	The Justifications of Democracy	59
5	Bread, Freedom, and Free Enterprise	83
6	Democracy as a Philosophy of History	95
7	The Degradation of the Word	106
8	Democracy and Desegregation	114
	Appendix: Justice Harlan's Dissent in The Civil Rights Cases of 1883	130

Part Two / Studies in Communism

9	The Conflict Between the Communist and Democratic Philosophies	137
10	Historical Determinism and Political Fiat in Soviet Communism	162
11	The Individual in a Totalitarian Society	182
12	Science and Dialectical Materialism	194
13	The Literature of Political Disillusionment	208
14	The Psychology of the "Fellow-Traveler"	225
	Appendices: A. Letter to Thomas Mann	237
	B. Letter from A. J. Carlson	239
15	Ideological Espionage	241
	Appendix: Statement of Harry Gold	249
16	The Problem of the Ex-Communist	258

Part Three / Problems of Security and Freedom

17	The Fall of the Town of Usher: A Political Fantasy	273
18	Security and Freedom	282
	Appendix: Security Measures for Civil Servants in England	298
19	Liberalism and the Law	301

8 / Contents

20	The Fallacies of Ritualistic Liberalism	319
21	The Ethics of Employment	342
22	Academic Freedom and Academic Integrity	349
	Appendices: A. A Letter from Dr. Ralph Fuchs
	B. A Reply to Professor Fuchs	359
	C. A Dissent by Arthur O. Lovejoy	361
23	Academic Freedom in the United States: Two Views	365

Part Four / Socialism, Freedom and Survival

24	The Challenge to Freedom	377
25	Karl Marx in Limbo	389
26	Socialism and Freedom	397
27	Socialism and Freedom: A Criticism of Sidney Hook by Max Eastman	408
28	Socialism Without Utopia: A Rejoinder to Max Eastman	424
29	The Nature and Sources of Fascism	438
30	Hitlerism: A Non-Metaphysical View	443
31	The Strategy of Political Warfare	453
32	Socialism and the Prospects of Liberation	467
33	A Foreign Policy for Freedom and Survival	488
	Appendices: A. A Reply by Bertrand Russell	497
	B. A Rejoinder to Bertrand Russell	500
	C. A Counter-Reply by Bertrand Russell	505
	D. A Counter-Rejoinder to Bertrand Russell	509
34	The Intellectual in America	518
	Index	529