

Table of Contents

INTRODUCTION	1
PART I. CULTURES AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Chapter I. Combining Research on Cultural Theory and International Relations Yu Xintian	9
Chapter II. Cultural Impact on International Relations George F. McLean	25
Chapter III. Explaining International Institutions from the Cultural Perspective Li Mintao	55
Chapter IV. Collective Identity and International Politics: A Cultural Perspective Sun Suyuan	67
Chapter V. Some Cases of Cultural Conflict and Convergence in the Current International Political Pattern Hua Jian	79
PART II. WESTERN CULTURES AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Chapter VI. A Cultural Analysis of American Diplomatic Traditions Wang Xiaode	91
Chapter VII. American Culture: Features and Mechanism of Role in Diplomatic Behavior Zhu Majie	111
Chapter VIII. Rethinking Efficiency and Institutional Capacity: Globalization and Selective Adaptation Pitman B. Potter	133
Chapter IX. Conflict and Assimilation Among Different Civilizations: On S. P. Huntington's Views Zhuang Xichang	151
PART III. EASTERN CULTURES AND INTERNATIONAL RELATIONS
Chapter X. Cultural Misunderstanding and the Need to Promote Consensus in International Relations: An Arab Perspective Mohamed Noman Galal	161
Chapter XI. Influence of Islamic Culture on Foreign Policies of Islamic Countries Ye Qing	183
Chapter XII. Characteristics and Values of Indian Culture Wu Yongnian	193
Chapter XIII. National Identity, Strategic Culture and Security Interests: Three Hypotheses on the Interaction Between China and International Society Qin Yaqing	209
INDEX	223