

TABLE OF CONTENTS

FOREWORD	v
INTRODUCTION	1
 PART I. COPING WITH PERSECUTION
Chapter I. Religious Change in Communism and in Post-Communist Reconstruction in Central Europe	7
Chapter II. The Marginalization of Christians Under Communism in Eastern Central Europe	27
Chapter III. The Religious - Non-Religious Dichotomy as a Social Problem: A Case Study	41
 PART II. CHURCH, STATE AND CIVIL SOCIETY
Chapter IV. Division of Labour and Cooperation between Church and State in Hungary before the Second World War	63
Chapter V. The Separation of State and Church in the Communist Societies of Eastern Europe	71
Chapter VI. Religion, Church, State and Civil Society in East-Central Europe	81
Chapter VII. The Contribution of the Churches in the Liberation from Below: On the Nature of the Transition in East-Central-Europe	93
 PART III. RELIGIOUS POLICIES IN HUNGARY BEFORE AND AFTER 1989
Chapter VIII. Church and Religion in a Communist State 1945-1989	113
Chapter IX. Religious and Church Policy after the Collapse of Communism	127

Chapter X. The Churches and the Church Policy of a Post-Communist Socialist Government	151
PART IV. SCIENTIFIC STUDY OF RELIGION DURING AND AFTER COMMUNISM
Chapter XI. The Sociology of Religion in Communist Countries: Functions and Preconditions before 1989	167
Chapter XII. The Sociology of Religion in Eastern and Central Europe After the Breakdown of Communism	177
BIBLIOGRAPHY	193
INDEX	209