

CONTENTS

Foreword	vii
Acknowledgements	x
Introduction	1
Part One – The Roots of Human Nature	21
1 Have We a Nature?	23
2 Animals and the Problem of Evil	39
3 Speech and Other Excellences	58
4 The Problem of Natural Evil	78
5 The Elusiveness of Responsibility	88
6 Selves and Shadows	100
7 Emotion, Emotiveness and Sentimentality	110
8 Equality and Outer Darkness	122
9 Is a Dolphin a Person?	132
Part Two – Philosophizing Out in the World	143
10 Philosophical Plumbing	146
11 Wisdom and Contemplation	153
12 The Withdrawal of Moral Philosophy	163
13 Escaping from Solitude	184
14 The Human Heart and Other Organs	198
15 On Trying Out One’s New Sword on a Chance Wayfarer	218
Part Three – The Myths of Science	225
16 Salvation and the Academics	228

17	Evolutionary Dramas	239
18	The Irresistible Escalator	246
19	The Service of Self and the Service of Kali	257
20	Biotechnology and the Yuk Factor	269
21	The Supernatural Engineer	281
22	The Remarkable Masculine Birth Of Time	290
Part Four – Reason and Imagination		303
23	The Sources of Thought	306
24	Atomistic Visions: The Quest for Permanence	319
25	Putting Our Selves Together Again	330
26	A Plague on Both Their Houses	340
Part Five – Gaian Thinking: Putting it All Together		347
27	Individualism and the Concept of Gaia	349
28	Gods and Goddesses: The Role of Wonder	359
29	Why there is Such a Thing as Society	367
30	The Unity of Life	373
Notes		379
Bibliography		400
Index		405