

Contents

Acknowledgments	vii
Introduction	1
Part One: Economics as an Academic Discipline
1 The Fallacy of Misplaced Concreteness in Economics and Other Disciplines	25
2 Misplaced Concreteness: The Market	44
3 Misplaced Concreteness: Measuring Economic Success	62
4 Misplaced Concreteness: Homo economicus	85
5 Misplaced Concreteness: Land	97
Part Two: New Beginnings
6 From Academic Discipline to Thought in Service of Community	121
7 From Chrematistics to Oikonomia	138
8 From Individualism to Person-in-Community	159
9 From Cosmopolitanism to Communities of Communities	176
10 From Matter and Rent to Energy and Biosphere	190
Part Three: Policies for Community in the United States
11 Free Trade versus Community	209
12 Population	236
13 Land Use	252
14 Agriculture	268
15 Industry	283
16 Labor	298
17 Income Policies and Taxes	315
18 From World Domination to National Security	332

Part Four: Getting There

19	Possible Steps	361
20	The Religious Vision	382
	Afterword: Money, Debt, and Wealth	407
	Appendix: The Index of Sustainable Economic Welfare	443
	References	508
	Index	521