

Contents

Foreword ix

Heitor Gurgulino de Souza, Rector of the United Nations University

Preface xiii

Acknowledgements xix

Introduction: From tradition to modernity 1

Jean-Jacques Salomon, Francisco R. Sagasti, and Céline Sachs-Jeantet

Part 1: Science, technology, and development 27

1 Modern science and technology 29

Jean-Jacques Salomon

2 The story of development thinking 65

Nasser Pakdaman

3 Measuring science, technology, and innovation 96

Jan Annerstedt

	Part 2: From history to current challenges	127
4	Western science in perspective and the search for alternatives	131
	Andrew Jamison
5	The institutionalization process	168
	Hebe Vessuri
6	The behaviour of scientists and scientific communities	201
	Jacques Gaillard
7	Technology, economics, and late industrialization	237
	Jorge Katz
8	Technological capabilities	264
	Sanjaya Lall
9	The environmental challenge	302
	Ignacy Sachs
	Part 3: The policy dimension	341
10	Science and technology policy	347
	Atul Wad
11	Technology transfer and diffusion	374
	Amitav Rath
12	Technology choice and development	412
	Ajit Bhalla
13	New technologies: Opportunities and threats	446
	Paulo Rodrigues Pereira
14	Technology assessment	489
	Harvey Brooks

Conclusion: Perspectives for the future	511
Francisco R. Sagasti
Contributors	519
Name index	525
Subject index	529