

THE ENLIGHTENMENT OF SYMPATHY

Justice and the Moral Sentiments in the Eighteenth Century and Today

MICHAEL L. FRAZER

OXFORD
UNIVERSITY PRESS

CONTENTS

- Introduction: A Tale of Two Enlightenments, 3
1. Sentimentalism before Hume, 15
    - I. The New Science of Human Nature, 17
    - II. Religious and Metaphysical Foundations, 25
    - III. Theories of Justice, 34
  2. Hume's Free-Standing Sentimentalism, 40
    - I. Sympathy and the Moral Sentiments, 41
    - II. Moral Development, 46
    - III. Hume's Normative Theory, 56
  3. Hume's Conservative Sentimentalism, 65
    - I. Hume's Theory of Justice, 66
    - II. The Sentimentalist Case against Hume's Theory, 76
  4. Adam Smith's Liberal Sentimentalism, 89
    - I. Sentimentalism and Individualism, 90
    - II. The Space between Actor and Spectator: Sympathy and Moral Judgment, 97
    - III. The Space between Actors: Justice and Natural Jurisprudence, 102
  5. Kant's Abandonment of Sentimentalism, 112
    - I. The Critical-Period Position on the Foundations of Morals, 114
    - II. The Critical-Period Normative Evaluation of Sympathy, 119
    - III. The Critical-Period Theory of Affects and Passions, 127
    - IV. A Contrasting Precritical Position, 132

6. Herder's Pluralist Sentimentalism, 139
  - I. Sentimentalism and the Problem of Diversity, 142
  - II. From Sympathy to Diversity, 147
  - III. From Diversity to Empathetic Understanding, 154
  - IV. From Empathetic Understanding to Justice, 160
7. Sentimentalism Today, 168
  - I. Sentimentalism and Social Science, 169
  - II. Sentimentalism and Normative Theory, 174
  - III. Sentimentalism and Political Practice, 178

Notes, 183

Bibliography, 213

Index, 229