

Understanding Emotions in Post-Factual Politics

Negotiating Truth

Anna Durnová

*Department of Public and Social Policy, Charles University,
Prague, Czech Republic and Institute for Advanced Studies,
Vienna, Austria*

 Edward Elgar
PUBLISHING

Cheltenham, UK • Northampton, MA, USA

Contents

List of figures	vii
Acknowledgements	viii
List of abbreviations	x
Introduction to post-factual politics	1
Book outline	14
Note on methodology and data material	16
1 The lost battle on truth	22
It is about getting to the truth: interpreting the culture of post-factual politics	23
Semmelweis's lesson for the binary of factual knowledge and emotions	38
Challenging the cultural ascendancy of scientific knowledge	46
The broken promise of participatory democracy	56
2 Vexatious knowledge	67
Knowledge goes emotional: when the symbols are aligned the right way	76
Getting at the post-factual trouble with vexatious knowledge	84
3 The partisans of truth	90
Emotions threatening scientific neutrality and objectivity: 'when the scientists go marching in'	93
Winnowing out charlatans and populists: the legitimacy of the emotional public	105
4 Understanding emotions in the post-factual world	109
The post-factual discourse on emotions	114
Emotions as performed experiences of values and beliefs	122
Conclusion: politicizing the scientific self can save us from post-factual times	127

Appendix	133
Analysed sources related to the Semmelweis case	133
Internet sources and social media material related to the March for Science case	133
References	135
Index	163