

Aristotelian Studies in 19th Century Philosophy

---

Edited by

Gerald Hartung, Colin Guthrie King, Christof Rapp

DE GRUYTER

Table of Contents

Preface — VII

Gerald Hartung, Colin Guthrie King, Christof Rapp

Introduction: Contours of Aristotelian Studies in the 19th Century — 1

Colin Guthrie King

Aristotle's Categories in the 19th Century — 11

Valentin Pluder

Aristotle's and Hegel's Logic — 37

Thomas Buchheim

"Aristotle, to whom more than anyone else the world owes the insight that only the individual exists". – On the driving force of Aristotelian notions in the later Schelling — 57

Gerald Hartung

What are Logical Investigations?

Aristotelian Research in Trendelenburg and Husserl — 77

Christian Pfeiffer

Negation and Judgment in Joseph Geysler

Aristotelian Research in the 19th Century — 97

Paul Ziche

"Aristoteles und Mephistopheles" – Debates about the Formation of Scientific Concepts in the 19th Century — 131

Dale Jacquette

Brentano on Aristotle's Psychology of the Active Intellect — 149

Christof Rapp

The German Chancellor, Confessional Struggles, therein Aristotle & his Allegedly Individual Forms

Georg von Hertling as an Interpreter of Aristotle — 179

Philipp Brüllmann

The Concrete Universal: Friedrich Adolf Trendelenburg on Kant, Aristotle and the Ethical Principle — 207

Denis Thouard

War on Rhetoric? Aristotle's Rhetoric in the 19th Century — 231

Annex: Ernest Havet on Enthymema, topoi and eide (1843, 37–40) — 251

On the contributors — 257

Index — 259