

John McDowell

Maximilian de Gaynesford

polity

Contents

Acknowledgements	xi
Preface	xiii
Part I: Overview	1
1 Challenge	3
The Default	4
Intentionality vs epistemology	9
Deconstructive vs constructive philosophy	11
Knot-unravelling vs therapy	14
Unity vs diversity	17
2 Response	19
Concepts and rational relations	21
The space of reasons	23
Dependency of experience on concepts	24
Dependency of concepts on experience	26
Dependency of concepts on language	28
Openness vs insulation	29
3 Implications	33
Intentionality and experience	33
Spontaneity and receptivity	35
Humanism and naturalism	36

Epistemology and externalism	37
Objectivity, value and ethics	38
Trademarks and influences	39
Description and revision	40
Part II: A Naturalism of Second Nature	43
Central Elements	45
4 Naturalism	49
Varieties of naturalism	49
Monist, reductionist non-scientism	53
Second nature	54
Aristotle on powers, abilities, capacities	55
Habituation and language	56
Summary	59
5 Reasons	60
Rational abilities and natural abilities	60
A naturalism of human nature	62
The autonomy of the space of reasons	64
The constitutive ideal of rationality	66
Meaning	68
6 Nature Revised	74
Nature and the space of reasons: various options	74
The space of reasons and the realm(s) of law	75
Pre-modern, modern and revised views of nature	77
Being at home	78
Part III: An Intentionality of Second Nature	81
Central Elements	83
7 Experience	89
Receptivity	90
Spontaneity	91
The inextricability claim	92
The contents of experience	95

8	Conceptualism	98
	The Myth of the Given	99
	Epistemology and intentionality (I)	101
	Coherentism	105
	Epistemology and intentionality (II)	107
9	Judgement	110
	Experiencing and judging	111
	The exercise of control	112
	Passivity and activity	114
	Non-conceptualism	115
	Judgement independence	117
10	Openness	121
	Ontological openness	122
	Fregean background	126
	Identity and dependency	128
11	World Dependency	132
	Perceptual demonstrative thoughts	133
	Varieties of externalism	136
	Perceptual demonstrative concepts	138
	Conceptual structure	141
Part IV: The Exercise of Second Nature		143
	Central Elements	145
12	Knowledge	151
	Intentionality and epistemology	152
	Criteria	154
	Other minds	157
	Illusion	159
13	Value	163
	Values as dispositional properties	163
	Varieties of property	164
	Objectivity and realism	166

Colours	168
Moral realism	170
Phenomenology	171
Secondary qualities	172
Value judgements	174
Conclusion	177
Notes	183
Select Further Reading	205
By John McDowell	205
By other authors	205
References	208
Cited works by John McDowell	208
Cited works by other authors	212
Index	219