

THE LANGUAGE OF GESTURES

by

WILHELM WUNDT

with an introduction by

ARTHUR L. BLUMENTHAL

and additional essays by

GEORGE HERBERT MEAD

and

KARL BÜHLER

1973

MOUTON

THE HAGUE . PARIS

TABLE OF CONTENTS

Acknowledgements.	5
Table of Figures	9
ARTHUR L. BLUMENTHAL
Introduction	11
GEORGE HERBERT MEAD
Wundt and the Concept of the Gesture	20
KARL BÜHLER
The Psychophysics of Expression of Wilhelm Wundt	30
WILHELM WUNDT
The Language of Gestures	55
I. Forms of Development of Gestural Communication	55
1. Concept and General Characteristics of Gestural Communication	55
2. Gestural Communication among Deaf-mutes	57
3. Gestural Communication and Primitive Peoples	63
4. Inherited Gestures among Civilized Peoples	64
5. Gestural Signs among the Cistercian Monks	69
II. Basic Gestural Forms	72
1. Psychological Classification of Gestures	72
2. Demonstrative Gestures	74
3. Imitative Gestures	78

4. Connotative Gestures	84
5. Symbolic Gestures	87
III. Ambiguity and Change of Meaning of Gestures . .	101
1. The Vagueness of the Conceptual Categories . .	101
2. The Transition of Concepts and the Change of Meaning of Gesture.	107
IV. The Syntax of Gestural Communication	114
1. The Sequence of Gestures among Deaf-mutes . .	114
2. The Sequence of Gestures among Indians. . . .	120
3. Psychological Causes of Gestural Syntax	123
V. The Psychological Development of Gestural Com- munication	127
1. The Origin of Gestures from Expressive Motions .	127
2. Gestures and the Origin of Graphic Art	133
3. Gestural Communication and Pictography . . .	135
4. The Psychological Character of Gestural Com- munication	145