

Wydawnictwo IFiS PAN

WHAT IS NEW IN THE NEW UNIVERSITIES?

Learning in Central Europe
in the Late Middle Ages (1340–1500)

edited by

Elżbieta Jung

Warszawa 2018

Table of Contents

Elżbieta Jung, Introduction	7
I. History of Late Central European Universities
Krzysztof Ozóg, The Influences of the Old European Universities on the Universities in the "Younger Europe". The Case of Cracow University in the 15th Century	17
Jiří Stočes, Die Prager Juristenuniversität als einzige Universität des Bologneser Typs in Mitteleuropa	41
Márta Font, Was kann man über die erste Universität von Pécs wissen?	59
Marek Gensler, Semper idem? Problems of Central European University Rectors in the Middle Ages and Now	73
Mikołaj Olszewski, History at medieval university? Remarks on John of Dąbrowka's Commentary on Vincent Kadłubek's Chronicle of Poles	83
Andrzej Dąbrowka, Outside of the Academy	103
II. Philosophy at Central European Universities
Edith Dudley Sylla, Astronomy at Cracow University in the late Fifteenth Century: Adalbert of Brudzewo and John of Glogów	125
André Goddu, Celestial Spheres in Fifteenth-Century Cracow Astronomy and Natural Philosophy	205
Krystyna Krauze-Błachowicz, Wojciech Wciórka, What is New in the Cracow Modistic Tradition?	257
Joanna Judycka, Paul of Worczin as Master of Arts in Kraków University	273
III. Theology at Central European Universities
William Duba, Marginal Realism: Reading the Sentences in the New Universities	295

Ota Pavlíček, Parisian and Prague quodlibeta Compared: The Transfer of the Quodlibetal Disputation between the Faculties and Jerome of Prague's Struggle against the Thematic Limitations Imposed on the Faculty of Arts	325
Monica Brnzei and Chris Schabel, Nicholas of Dinkelsbühl and the University of Vienna on the Eve of the Reformation	357
Bibliography	443
Index	483
Notes on Contributors.....	491