

Christos Tombras

Discourse Ontology

Body and the Construction of a World, from Heidegger through Lacan

palgrave
macmillan

Contents

1 Introduction	1
Changing Causes	3
A Science for the Psyche and a Challenge	4
Aims and Scope of the Book	8
Chapter Outline	14
Bibliography	19
2 The Question of Being	21
Heidegger's Phenomenology	22
Beings, and the Question of Being	25
Ontological Difference	28
The World, and Things in This World	30
Signs and Language	33
Truth as Unconcealment	35
Being-with Others, Authenticity, the "They"	38
Time, Historicity, and the "Event"	40
"Turning" Away from Fundamental Ontology	43
Bibliography	48

3	A Critique of Science and Psychoanalysis	51
	From the Ancient to the Modern World	53
	The Era of Galileo	56
	Regional Ontologies	58
	On the Givenness of Space	61
	On the Givenness of Time	63
	Body and the Question of Psyche	66
	Certainty, Truth, Science	70
	Psychoanalysis in Focus	75
	From the Question of Being to Lacan	81
	Bibliography	84
4	Back to Freud, and Beyond	87
	Revisiting Freud's Discovery	88
	Basic Assumptions of Psychoanalysis	90
	"Retroaction" and the Concept of Time	94
	Material and Tools of Psychoanalysis	96
	Signifiers and the Origins of Meaning	99
	The Lacanian Unconscious	102
	An Identity from the Mirror	104
	The Three Registers of Experience	106
	Jouissance and the Signifierisation of the Real	113
	Emergence of Desire	117
	Instincts, Drives and Beyond	121
	Bibliography	124
5	Lacanian Metapsychology	129
	The Subject of Psychoanalysis	130
	Law and Cause in Psychoanalysis	132
	Signifieriness and Signifying Chain	135
	The Corporeality of Language: Lalangue	140
	Knowledge, Truth, Metalanguage	143
	Logical Time and Temporality	146
	Theory of Discourses	151
	Jouissance and the Speaking Body	156
	Sexuation	159

Borromean Clinic	163
A Method of Discovery or of Exposition?	168
Mathematical Formalisation and Discourse	171
From “Anti-philosophy” Back to Philosophy	175
Bibliography	178
6 An Ontology from Discourse	183
From Heidegger Through Lacan	186
The Case for an Ontology	189
Preliminary Considerations	190
What Is a Signifier?	190
Beings, Being, and History	193
Four Aspects of Time	195
The Position of the Unconscious	196
Five Themes of a Discourse Ontology	198
Speaking Being and the Emergence of Signifierness	198
Truth as a Rule-Governed Activity	200
Discursive Constitution of Time	203
Body, Jouissance and Sexuation	204
Constructing and Sharing a World	206
Recasting the Mind/Body Split	207
The Position of Consciousness	211
Truth in the Era of Alternative Facts	215
Bibliography	218
7 Conclusion: Psychoanalysis as a Cause	221
Index	227