

JERZY KMITA

*Professor of Logic and Methodology of Science,
Adam Mickiewicz University, Poznań*

ESSAYS
ON THE THEORY OF
SCIENTIFIC COGNITION

Translated from the Polish by Jacek Holówka

KLUWER ACADEMIC PUBLISHERS

DORDRECHT / BOSTON / LONDON

PWN—POLISH SCIENTIFIC PUBLISHERS

WARSZAWA

TABLE OF CONTENTS

INTRODUCTION	1
Notes	23
ESSAY 1. ON TWO KINDS OF EXPLANATION	27
1.1. Introductory Remarks	27
1.2. Two Kinds of Explanation — An Analysis of Examples	31
1.3. Unequivocal Explanation versus Historical Explanation	39
1.4. Some Controversies about the Methodological Nature of History in View of the Concept of Historical Explanation	43
Notes	52
ESSAY 2. ON THE CONCEPTS OF HISTORICAL POSSIBILITY AND NECESSITY	55
2.1. Introductory Remarks	55
2.2. Transformation of a Historical Possibility into a Historical Necessity — Examples	59
2.3. Marxist Concepts of Historical Possibility and Necessity	67
Notes	76
ESSAY 3. THE CONTROVERSY ABOUT THE DETERMINANTS OF THE GROWTH OF SCIENCE	78
3.1. Science as a Type of Social Practice	78
3.2. Hypothetistic Model of the Growth of Scientific Knowledge	82
3.3. Within the Purview of 'Historical Ideology'	89
3.4. The Principle of the Growth of Sciences	101
Notes	112

ESSAY 4. THE RELATION OF MARXIST EPISTEM- OLOGY TO EMPIRICISM	116
4.1. Methodological Individualism of Traditional Em- piricism	118
4.2. The Principle of the Growth of Science as the Basic Premise of Marxist Theory of Cognition	127
4.3. Some Remarks on the Concept of Scientific Valid- ity	138
4.4. Some Remarks on Concretization of Idealizational Laws	147
Notes	161
ESSAY 5. ADAPTATION AS THE OPPOSITION TO CORRESPONDENCE	165
5.1. Weltanschauung versus Social Practical Knowl- edge	165
5.2. The Principle of Adaptation	169
5.3. Anti-Naturalist Application of Adaptation to a Cognitive Inquiry in the Humanities	179
5.4. Some Remarks on the Humanist Explanation of Phenomena Concerning Individuals	184
Notes	187
SUBJECT INDEX	191