

CONTENTS

Prologue.....	1
Preface.....	3

Chapter 1 Introduction

A Short Description of Emergence	7
Methodology	11
Epistemology	11
The Prime Imperative of Analysis	13
Structural Logic	14
Development	17
Extensional Development and Change Development Occur by Way of Structural Logic	19
Mental Model	22
Additional Notes on Method	27
The Mental Model Is Not a Theory	27
Reduction	27
Prediction	30
Something	30
Role	30
Defining	30
Order of Presentation	31
History of the Developing Understanding of Emergence	32
Errors and Contrary Opinion about Emergence Are Not Discussed	32
Deeper Origins—Foundations, Developments, Interrelations, and Origins That Are Basic to the Origin of Emergence	32
Reality	33

Chapter 2

Space

Space Exists—Space Is Place	37
Spatial Place Is Immaterial	37
Spatial Place Has Extension	37
Spatial Place Has Parts	39
Relation	40
Combinatorial Enhancement	41
Sequentiality—Sequential-Difference	42
Extensional Development—
Sequential Enhancement	44
Spatial Place, Existential Organization, and the Foundation of Pattern	47
Existential Context—A Place-to-Be	48
Existential Requisites, and the
Intrinsic Self-Identity of Space	49
Spatial Place Exists, and It Continues to Exist	50
Continuance, Quantity, Parts	50
Sequentiality, Sequential-Difference,
Noncoexistent-Sequential-Difference ...	51
Relative Aspects of Noncoexistent-
Sequential-Difference	52
New Part, Change, Change Development	53
Change in an Aspect of Self-Identity	54
Consequent-Existence and
Determinate-Reality	56
Consequent-Existence.....	56
Determinate-Reality.....	57
Existential-Dependency	59
Uniformity and Unidirectionality of
Continuing-Existence	60
Continuing-Existence and Organization	60
Spatial Continuance-of-Being Has Always
Occurred and Will Always Occur	61
Simultaneity	62

Spatial Continuing-Existence
Existential-Context	62
The Primal Development from the Existence of
Space to the Continuing-Existence of Space	64
The Initiators	66
Initiation and Intrinsic Consequence	66
Determinate Aspect of Initiation	67
Development of Initiators	67
Initiators and Sequential-Difference	68
The Continuing-Existence of Space Provides the
Temporal Aspect of Reality	69
Time—In Summary	73

Chapter 3

Space and Matter

Using Space to Understand Matter	78
Factors of the First Stage Required for the
Existence of Matter	79
Factors of the Second Stage (Continuing-Existence) Required for the
Existence of Matter	84
The Identity of Matter Is Based on the Existence of Substantiality	86
Materially Based Extensional Development and
Materially Based Change Development	87
Space and Matter Are Coexistent—
Matter Occupies Space	90
Development of Factors from Their Spatial Form to Their Material Form—Nonpathway
Factor Development	95
Preliminary Considerations	95
Nonpathway Factor Development from
Space to Matter	97

Chapter 4

Space, Matter, and Motion—The Origin of Emergence

The Existence of Motion	103
The Intrinsic Nature of Motion	103
Factors of Self-Identity and Continuing-Existence of Motion ...	103
Factors of Motion Itself—The Basic Intrinsic Qualities of Motion	105
Motion Is an Initiator	110
Initiation Situation— Organizational Initiation	112
Motion Is a Developed Form of Change	119
The Role of Isomorphism	120
The Role of Continuing-Existence in Developed Change	123
Space and Two Static Units of Matter	125
Motion of a Unit of Matter in the Presence of Another Unit That is Not Moving	129
Factors of This Stage	130
Discussion of Factors at the Origin of Emergence	133
Why Is There Emergence?	138

Chapter 5

The Origin of Cause

The Development That Leads to Cause	142
A Review of the Development of Initiation	142
The General Pattern of the Development	144
Factors That Determine This General Pattern of Development	145
Development at Third Level Extensional Pattern	146

The First Stage of Initiation at the Third Level of Extensional Pattern	146
The Second Stage of Initiation at the Third Level of Extensional Pattern	146
The Third Stage of Initiation at the Third Level of Extensional Pattern	150
Additional Points of Interest about Transformation Points	152
Development at Fourth Level Extensional Pattern	153
The First Stage of Initiation at the Fourth Level of Extensional Pattern	154
The Second Stage of Initiation at the Fourth Level of Extensional Pattern	155
The Third Stage of Initiation at the Fourth Level of Extensional Pattern—And the Emergence of Contact	158
The Development-of-Origin of Cause	164
The Third Stage of Initiation at the Fourth Level of Extensional Pattern—And the Emergence of Push	164

Chapter 6

The Origin of Self-Organization

The Basics	172
Self-Organization through the Collision
Situation	181
Adjacent Relation	182
Contact Relation	182
Blocking	184

The Changed Motion of the Moving Unit	189
Push	191
The New Motion of the Blocking Unit	192

Appendix 1

The Differences between the Extension of Spatial Place and the Continuing-Existence of Spatial Place	197
--	-----

Appendix 2

Summary of Factors That Are Identical in Spatial and Material Continuing-Existence	203
---	-----

Appendix 3

Two Lists of the Factors That Play Roles with Motion	205
---	-----

Appendix 4

Summaries of the Development of Some of the Individual Factors that Occur in the Foundational Development of Reality	217
--	-----