

TABLE OF CONTENTS

PREFACE.....	ix
ABBREVIATIONS—NOTICE TO THE READER.....	xi
GENERAL INTRODUCTION.....	xiii
1. Aim and Method of the Study.....	xiii
2. Galen and Greek Philosophy.....	xvii
3. PHP Books II-III: Contents and Style.....	xxii
4. Plato, Hippocrates and Other Authorities.....	xxviii

PART ONE

GALEN: DIALECTIC AND SCIENCE

CHAPTER 1. Introduction.....	3
CHAPTER 2. Galen on Scientific Method (PHP II 1-4).....	8
2.1. Types of Question.....	8
2.2. Distinguishing the Options.....	11
2.3. Four Kinds of Premises.....	12
2.4. Analysis and Attributes.....	23
CHAPTER 3. The Seat of the Mind: Inquiry and Refutation (PHP II 4-7).....	38
3.1. Introduction.....	38
3.2. The Position of the Heart and Brain.....	39
3.3. Embryological Arguments.....	45
3.4. Structure, or Form.....	47
3.5. The Heart and the Passions.....	53
3.6. Excursus: The Third Part of the Soul (PHP VI).....	55
3.7. Essence, Property and Sign.....	60
CHAPTER 4. Digestion and Respiration: Diogenes of Babylon and Others (PHP II 8).....	66
4.1. Introduction.....	66
4.2. Two Peripatetic (and Stoic?) Arguments.....	67
4.3. Diogenes' First Argument.....	79
4.4. Diogenes' Second Argument.....	87
4.5. Galen's Discussion: An Overall Evaluation.....	101
CHAPTER 5. The Traditional Background.....	106
5.1. Two Passages from the Prior Analytics	106
5.2. The Tradition of Dialectical Topics.....	110
CONCLUSION TO PART ONE.....	127

PART TWO

CHRYSIPPUS: DIALECTIC AND PERSUASION

CHAPTER 1. Preliminaries.....	133
1.1. Introduction.....	133
1.2. The State of the Evidence.....	134
1.3. Some Modern Interpretations.....	138
CHAPTER 2. The Beginning of Chrysippus' Demonstration ...	147
2.1. Galen's Polemical Procedure.....	147
2.2. Chrysippean and Academic Dialectic.....	158
2.3. The 'Common Belief'.....	160
2.4. Passions and Synaisthêsis : Traditional Ideas.....	168
2.5. Chrysippus' Argument from the Passions.....	174
2.6. Self-Perception and Oikeiôsis : Academic Criticism.....	177
2.7. The Passions and the Concept of Tekmêrion	185
CHAPTER 3. Chrysippus and Science.....	189
CHAPTER 4. Language and Related Phenomena.....	196
4.1. Introduction.....	196
4.2. The Heart as the Centre of Verbal Communication....	203
4.3. Egô	206
4.4. Cases of Alleged Self-Contradiction.....	215
CHAPTER 5. Poetry.....	219
5.1. Introduction.....	219
5.2. Stoicism and the Poets.....	220
5.3. Poetry and Articulation: Evidence from Other Sources	229
5.4. The On the Soul : Some Aspects of Structure.....	233
5.5. Thymos	236
5.6. The Passions and Spoken Language.....	244
CHAPTER 6. The Argument from the Passions, Continued....	249
6.1. The Argument Described.....	249
6.2. Paradox (atopia), Persuasiveness (pithanon) and Inference.....	255
CHAPTER 7. Chrysippus' Demonstration: A General Evaluation	264
7.1. Persuasive Arguments (pithana) in the On the Soul	264
7.2. Chrysippus, Carneades and the Levels of Persuasiveness.....	273
CONCLUSION TO PART TWO.....	288
BIBLIOGRAPHY.....	291
INDICES.....	298